

Pan-Icarian Brotherhood of America "Icaros"

CHAPTER ICAROS 7

Pittsburgh, PA
where it all began...

Proud Host of the 2003
Centennial Convention
August 29 - September 1

-- THE CONVENTION NOT TO BE MISSED

--

The Pan-Icarian Brotherhood of America "Icaros" is the oldest Hellenic organization in the Western Hemisphere and was founded in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. So it is fitting that we celebrate our Centennial where it all began.

Chapter Icaros is planning a truly memorable event for the 2003 Centennial Convention and looks forward to celebrating it with you!

The Hilton Pittsburgh and Towers, site of the 2003 Centennial Convention, is located across the street from Point State Park (The city chose to put a park at its very tip, fittingly referred to as the Point).

Pittsburgh, often referred to as the Golden Triangle, is a unique city built where the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers meet to form the Ohio River. There is plenty of life on the streets of Pittsburgh, where former warehouses have been turned into restaurants and many street fairs are held in trendy neighborhoods like the South Side, Shadyside, and the Strip. Rising above it all is the Duquesne Incline, a restored cable car that carries passengers up Mt. Washington for some fabulous views. And sports fans will especially enjoy the city's rich tradition of football, baseball, and hockey.
